men, the short one with whom Mr. She ton fought, has a bruised face from impact of Mr. Shelton's fists. Besides. legislator says he could identify this fellow's villainous face anywhere on earth. Mr. Shelton declares the man to be a little brighter than the gingerbread type, to have a small mustache, thick unthe nostrile and becoming thinner as it approaches the corners of the mount. He is thick set, short and would weigh probably 175 pounds. The other man was taller, but Mr. Shelton did not see his face. The third man he never saw at all. But Miss Mullen saw the three distinctly, and when she becomes more composed will and when she becomes more composed will probably be able to give sufficient description to enable the officers to spot the men. Once arrested and brought before her she could doubtless identify them roadily, while Mr. Shelton would have no hesitancy at all in recognizing his chief assailant.

Two tips have been received at the Second Police Station, so it was stated there last night. What they were, of course, was not stated. The police and detectives have many ways of finding criminals. One of their most successful methods among negroes is to set a negro to catch a negro. Some sharp fellow is often employed to move around among suspected negroes and get evidence and admissions that a white Sherlock Holmes could never do. This and every other experiment will be resorted to to catch the brutes of Friday night. If the reward is increased by popular subscription detectives of other cities will probably be induced to join their wits to the efforts of the regular police. "I shall certainly leave no stone unturned to catch the men," said Captain Tomilinson yesterday, after having put in all of the day in working on the case. ay, after having put in all of the day

Schwartz is one of the men connected with the street cleaning department. Dyer is a meterman on the Passenger and Power Company's car. The car which Dyer was on stopped too close to the crossing, according to the views of Mr. Schwartz and an argument arcse. Schwartz, and an argument arose be-tween the motorman and the clitzen. Dyer left the car and ran up the street toward Schwatz and another argument was indulged in, both men talking in an excited fashion. Policeman Bradley went to the scene and found the men acting in what he thought in a disorderly way. He put them under arest and walked back to Seventh Street, so that Dyer might take his car on, but remain under arrest, He called Officer Walton to take Schwartz to the station, when Dyer explained that he was off duty and could go with Mr. Bradley then and there. Both were then taken in and the charge was disorderly conduct preferred against

Tennessee ls to be added to the number of States amending their Constitutions. The present Constitution of Tennessee was adopted in 1873, succeeding the readmission of the State to the Union in February, 1870. Between the close of the war and the adoption of the Constitution or 1873 the government of the State was practically in the hands of the residents of the mountain districts of East Tennessee, a very considerable number of the voters of other parts of the State being distranchised. With the restoration of Suffrage to all parts of the State, tha adoption of a new Constitution was made possible, and it is this Constitution which is now proposed to amend. In a number

TOBACCO FIRE IN DANVILLE

Star Warehouse and Prizery Are Entirely Consumed. (Special to The Times-Dispatch.) DANVILLE, VA., July 18.—The Star Warehouse on Spring Street, operated by Warehouse on Spring Street, operated by C. D. Noel and Company, and the large four-story prizery, owned by John B. Anderson and Company, were entirely consumed by fire to-night.

The fire was discovered about $:34 o'clock. By the time the fire department arrived on the scene the flames had made such headway that it was impossible to arrest them. From the warehouse the prizery caught, and between $15.000 and $:20,000 worth of tobacco was entirely destroyed, and the building practically burned to the ground. The origin of the fire is unknown.

stroyed, and the building practically burned to the ground. The origin of the fire is unknown.

The Star Warehouse, which was one of the largest in the city, was owned by Hair and Keesee, or Martinsville, and Alfred Anderson, of this city. It had been operated for a number of years by C. D. Noell and Company, but had recently been rented by the Danville Co-operative Warehouse Company for a term of years at a rental of $2,500 per year, The company had some stock on hand, valued possibly at $15,000 or $20,000, which was entirely covered by insurance. It is estimated that the total loss will reach $15,000, partially covered by insurance. It is estimated that the total loss will reach $15,000. Two tobacco factories on the opposite side of the street, owned by J. N. Wyllie and Company, of this city, and another, owned by J. N. Gorman, of Richmond, were slightly damaged.
